Attorney Advance

Unlock Funding on Outstanding RAF Fees

 Taurus

THE PROBLEM

You've earned the fees. The RAF hasn't paid them.

Litigating Road Accident Fund claims can be worthwhile for firms that see them through to the end. The risk, time and cost involved is often rewarded once a matter finally settles or is awarded. The challenge lies in timing: it can take months, even years, for a finalised claim to convert into an actual payout for your firm.

That delay places tremendous strain on the operations of a personal injury firm that is providing proper access to justice for its claimants. We not only appreciate the problem you face – we have a solution for it

Attorney Advance offers an upfront cash payment against the outstanding fees tied up in your firm's finalised Road Accident Fund court orders and settlement agreements. You're not taking on new debt – you're accessing money you're already owed – it's just stuck in a process.

Who is Attorney Advance for?

Attorney Advance serves two kinds of personal injury practice with the same underlying need – cash that's already earned, but not yet paid.

Established personal injury firms

Unlock the value already sitting in your settled RAF matters.

Release trapped value

Every finalised matter awaiting RAF payment is cash your firm has already earned. Attorney Advance turns it into working capital.

No new debt on your balance sheet

You're not borrowing against the future. You're accessing money already owed to your firm.

Build your T-Score early

An established settlement history strengthens your firm's T-Score, unlocking better pricing over time.

Funding profile

A portion of the value of qualifying contingent fees.

Growing personal injury practices

Take on more matters without waiting for RAF payments.

Increase capacity

Unlock capital to run more matters in parallel.

Onboard without a long track record

You don't need years of settled matters to qualify. Funding is assessed on your current qualifying fees.

Scale with confidence

Take on larger or more complex matters knowing disbursement funding is there when you need it.

Funding profile

Same portion of qualifying contingent fees, from your very first finalised matter.

Both benefit from the same core structure: faster cash flow, transparent pricing and funding designed around RAF payment timelines.

How Does Attorney Advance Work?

1

Submit your RAF matters & additional information

Provide details of your firm's finalised RAF court orders or settlement agreements awaiting payment and any other additional information requested.

2

We review your portfolio

Our specialists evaluate. We understand the RAF process, the delays, and the impact on your cash flow.

3

You receive a bridging offer

A personalised offer with clear pricing and funding amounts – a portion of your qualifying contingent fees. You'll know exactly what to expect.

4

Funds are paid to your firm

Once documentation is complete, your advance is paid directly to your firm and put to work in your practice.

5

The RAF pays, the advance is settled

No monthly repayments. Your advance is settled when the Road Accident Fund pays your outstanding matters – repayment is matched to the cash flow cycle of your firm.

AN INDUSTRY FIRST

T-SCORE your key to lower-cost funding

Your T-Score is your status as an attorney within Taurus. It starts with the state of your firm at onboarding, then changes dynamically with your track record: how your firm loads claims, settles matters and handles RAF payments. The more timeously your firm settles and pays, the more funding you unlock – and the less that funding costs.

What Attorney Advance can change for you?

Immediate cash flow

Release working capital quickly against fees your firm has already earned, instead of waiting months or years for the RAF.

Keep your practice running

Pay salaries, rent and operating expenses while RAF matters sit awaiting payment.

Fund future matters

Cover medico-legal disbursements and advocate fees so cases move forward and take on more clients in parallel.

Transparent pricing

Simple and predictable. The charge depends on how much you draw and how long the RAF takes to pay – no hidden fees, no compound interest.

Not a loan

Attorney Advance is early access to fees you've already earned, not new debt on your firm's balance sheet.

Specialists in RAF funding

We focus on funding for personal injury law firms. We know the RAF process, the delays and the nuances of your niche.

What firms use it for

- Salaries, rent and operating costs.
- Marketing to grow the client base.

Or simply taking on the next matter instead of waiting for the last one to pay.
